annual notice of changes for 2018 healthfirstpw

Published: September 19, 2026 | Index ID: #-

Introduction

Every year, health insurance members receive a crucial document that outlines changes to their coverage, costs, and provider networks. For those enrolled in HealthFirstPW during the 2018 plan year, the annual notice of changes(ANC) served as a roadmap to navigating the evolving landscape of benefits. Whether you were a new member, a seasoned beneficiary, or simply curious about how insurance plans adapt over time, understanding the ANC is essential. This article delves into the purpose of the notice, what specific alterations HealthFirstPW introduced in 2018, how to locate and interpret the document, and why staying informed can help you make smarter health care decisions.

Understanding the Annual Notice of Changes (ANC)

What Is an ANC?

The ANC is a formal communication from an insurance carrier that details any modifications to a plan's terms and conditions for the upcoming plan year. These changes can involve premiums, deductibles, copayments, covered services, network participation, and more. The notice is required by federal regulations and is typically issued a few weeks before the new plan year begins, giving members ample time to review and adjust their choices.

Why It Matters for HealthFirstPW Members

For HealthFirstPW participants, the ANC is a vital tool that ensures transparency and empowers you to align your coverage with your health needs and financial goals. Ignoring the notice can lead to unexpected out-of-pocket expenses, loss of preferred providers, or gaps in coverage. By reviewing the ANC, you can determine whether the plan still meets your expectations or if you should explore alternative options during the open enrollment period.

HealthFirstPW 2018: Key Highlights

Overview of HealthFirstPW

HealthFirstPW is a popular managed care organization that offers a range of health plans, including HMO, PPO, and high-deductible health plans (HDHP) paired with Health Savings Accounts (HSAs). Known for its extensive provider network and robust preventive care services, HealthFirstPW serves millions of members across several states. The 2018 plan year was marked by significant shifts in healthcare policy and market dynamics, prompting the company to adjust its offerings accordingly.

2018 Plan Year Overview

In 2018, HealthFirstPW's plan year ran from January 1 to December 31, with open enrollment typically occurring in the fall of the preceding year. The ANC for 2018 was distributed in late September 2017, giving members a full month to review changes before the new year commenced. The notice covered all plan types, including individual, family, employer-sponsored, and Medicare Advantage options, each with its own set of modifications.

The 2018 Annual Notice of Changes: What to Expect

Coverage Adjustments

One of the most significant updates in the 2018 ANC involved alterations to covered preventive services. HealthFirstPW expanded its preventive care benefits to include additional wellness programs, such as nutrition counseling and chronic disease management workshops, at no extra cost to members. However, some routine screenings—like certain colonoscopies—experienced slight increases in copay amounts to reflect rising procedural costs.

Network Modifications

The ANC highlighted changes in the provider network, including the addition of new specialists in cardiology and oncology, as well as the removal of a handful of out-of-state physicians who had ceased participation. These adjustments were part of HealthFirstPW's strategy to strengthen in-state care coordination and reduce costs associated with out-of-network services.

Cost-Sharing Updates

Cost-sharing structures saw notable revisions. The deductible for the HMO plans increased from $1,500 to $1,800, while the out-of-pocket maximum rose from $5,000 to $5,500. For PPO members, copayments for office visits shifted from $30 to $35, and the coinsurance for specialist visits moved from 20% to 25%. These changes reflected broader industry trends toward higher deductibles coupled with lower monthly premiums.

Prescription Drug Changes

Pharmacy benefits also evolved. The ANC introduced a new tiered formulary that added more generic drugs to the preferred tier, reducing copays for many common prescriptions. However, certain brand-name medications experienced higher copays, and a few drugs were removed from the formulary due to new clinical guidelines. Members were encouraged to review the updated drug list and consult with their pharmacists if they had questions.

Additional Benefits or Eliminations

HealthFirstPW added several new benefits, such as telehealth services available 24/7, and expanded mental health coverage, including increased coverage for therapy sessions. Conversely, the ANC noted the discontinuation of the "Wellness Points" program, which had previously rewarded members for completing health challenges. The company cited shifting priorities toward direct care services as the reason for this elimination.

How to Access the 2018 ANC

Online Portal

Most members accessed the 2018 ANC through the HealthFirstPW Member Portal. After logging in, they could download a PDF version of the notice, which included interactive links to specific sections. The portal also provided a searchable database of all plan documents, making it easy to compare changes across plan types.

Email Notification

Members who opted for electronic communications received the ANC as an email attachment. The email included a brief summary of key changes and a link to the full notice on the portal. This method was popular among tech-savvy users who preferred quick access to their plan information.

Paper Copy

For those who preferred a hard copy, HealthFirstPW mailed the ANC to each member's registered address. The mailed notice was printed on high-quality paper and included a QR code that directed recipients to the online version for additional resources. While slower to arrive, the paper copy was still a reliable source of information for many members.

Interpreting the Notice

Decoding the Language

Insurance documents can be dense, but the ANC was designed with clarity in mind. Key terms such as “deductible,” “copayment,” “coinsurance,” and “out-of-pocket maximum” were defined in a glossary at the end of the notice. For members unfamiliar with these terms, the glossary served as a quick reference guide.

Key Sections to Focus On

- Summary of Changes – A concise bullet-point list of the most significant updates.
- Coverage Details – In-depth explanations of how specific benefits will change.
- Network Information – A list of participating providers and any newly added or removed doctors.
- Cost-Sharing Table – A side-by-side comparison of pre- and post-change costs.
- FAQs – Frequently asked questions addressing common concerns.

Common Questions and Answers

1. Will my premium increase? – The ANC indicated that the premium for the HMO plan increased by 3% to offset higher deductible costs.
2. Can I keep my out-of-network provider? – While you can still use out-of-network providers, you’ll pay the full cost plus a 20% coinsurance.
3. What happens if I don’t review the ANC? – You may unknowingly incur higher costs or lose coverage for certain services.

Impact on Your Health Care Decisions

Choosing Providers

The network changes in the 2018 ANC meant that members needed to verify whether their preferred doctors were still in-network. Switching to an in-network provider could save thousands of dollars over the course of a year. The ANC’s provider directory made it straightforward to check network status and find alternatives if necessary.

Managing Out-of-pocket Costs

With higher deductibles and coinsurance rates, members had to plan for increased out-of-pocket expenses. The ANC’s cost-sharing table helped individuals estimate how much they would pay for routine visits versus specialist care. By budgeting accordingly, members could avoid unexpected financial strain.

Adjusting Your Prescription Plans

Pharmacy benefit changes required members to review their medication lists. The ANC’s formulary map highlighted new generic alternatives that could reduce costs. For patients on brand-name drugs that moved to a higher copay tier, the notice advised contacting a pharmacist or prescriber to discuss potential substitutes.

Staying Informed Beyond the ANC

Annual Open Enrollment

Open enrollment is the period when members can switch plans or make changes to their benefits. HealthFirstPW encouraged members to review the ANC during this window to determine whether the 2018 plan still aligned with their needs or if a different plan offered better value.

HealthFirstPW Resources

Beyond the ANC, HealthFirstPW provides a wealth of resources: an online benefits calculator, a mobile app for claim status, and a 24/7 member hotline. These tools help members stay on top of their health care usage and costs throughout the plan year.

Customer Support

For those who needed additional clarification, HealthFirstPW's customer support team was available via phone, chat, and email. Representatives could walk members through the ANC, explain complex terms, and guide them to appropriate resources.

Conclusion

The 2018 annual notice of changes for HealthFirstPW was more than a regulatory formality; it was a gateway to understanding how the plan evolved to meet the shifting demands of healthcare delivery and cost management. By reviewing the ANC, members gained insight into coverage adjustments, network modifications, and cost-sharing changes that directly impacted their health care decisions. Staying informed through the ANC, coupled with proactive engagement during open enrollment and continuous use of HealthFirstPW's support resources, empowers members to make choices that optimize both their health outcomes and financial well-being. In an industry where plans can shift dramatically from year to year, the ANC remains a vital compass for navigating the complex terrain of health insurance.
