Understanding the GMAT Sentence Correction Challenge

What Makes Sentence Correction Unique?

The GMAT Sentence Correction section is notorious for its focus on advanced English usage, but it's more than just grammar drills. It tests:

- Understanding of subject verb agreement and tense consistency.
- Recognition of parallel structure and proper modifier placement.
- Skill in spotting logical and stylistic errors that can change the meaning of a sentence.
- Ability to make precise edits that improve clarity without altering intent.

Because the questions are designed to mirror real world academic writing, mastering this section requires both a solid grasp of grammar rules and the ability to apply them under time constraints.

Common Pitfalls for Test Takers

Even the best students can fall into these traps:

1. Over editing: Making unnecessary changes that introduce new errors.
2. Focusing too much on word choice instead of sentence structure.
3. Misinterpreting the original intent of the sentence.
4. Ignoring the contextual clues that guide the correct answer.

To avoid these mistakes, a study guide must provide clear explanations, plenty of practice, and strategies for efficient time management.

Why the Aristotle GMAT Sentence Correction Grail 3rd Edition Is a Game Changer

1. A Proven Track Record

Since its first release, the Aristotle GMAT Sentence Correction Grail has helped thousands of students improve their scores. The 3rd edition builds on that legacy by incorporating the latest GMAT format changes, updated practice questions, and fresh explanations that reflect current scoring trends.

2. Comprehensive Coverage of Core Concepts

The 3rd edition tackles every major grammar rule that appears on the GMAT:

- Subject verb agreement, pronoun usage, and noun pronoun consistency.
- Verb tenses, participles, and gerunds.
- Modifiers, parallel structure, and sentence fragments.
- Word choice, logical flow, and style.

Each concept is presented with a concise definition, followed by a series of graded examples that illustrate common pitfalls and correct solutions.

3. Real World Practice Questions

One of the key strengths of the 3rd edition is its extensive question bank. Unlike generic worksheets, the questions mirror the difficulty and style of the actual GMAT. They are grouped by difficulty level, allowing you to gradually build confidence and test your skills against realistic scenarios.

2. In Depth Explanations

Sample Questions and Practice Strategies

Example Question 1

Original Sentence: “The committee, which had been formed in 2019, will review the proposals submitted by the applicants.”

Options:

1. “The committee, which had been formed in 2019 will review the proposals submitted by the applicants.”
2. “The committee, which had been formed in 2019, will review the proposals submitted by the applicants.”
3. “The committee, which had been formed in 2019 will review the proposals submitted by the applicants.”
4. “The committee, which had been formed in 2019, will review the proposals submitted by the applicants.”

Correct Answer: Option 2

Explanation: The relative clause “which had been formed in 2019” is non restrictive and must be set off by commas on both sides. Option 2 correctly places the comma after the clause. Option 4 repeats the same punctuation, but the book highlights that the first comma after the subject is optional and can be omitted if the sentence remains clear. In this case, the comma after “committee” is optional, so both options 2 and 4 are acceptable, but the book’s 3rd edition prefers the more common placement.

Example Question 2

Original Sentence: “If the project is completed on time, the team will be rewarded.”

Options:

1. “If the project is completed on time, the team will be rewarded.”
2. “If the project is completed on time, the team will be rewarded.”
3. “If the project is completed on time, the team will be rewarded.”
4. “If the project is completed on time, the team will be rewarded.”

Correct Answer: Option 1

Explanation: The sentence is correctly punctuated with a comma after the conditional clause. The book explains that this is the standard form for GMAT sentence correction, and any variation that omits the comma or adds an unnecessary one would be considered incorrect.
